AN ASSASSIN'S ATTEMPT!

President Garfield Dangerously Wounded.

He is Shot in the Shoulder and Back.

His Assailant a Foreignor Named Gitteaux.

Baltimore and Potomac Depot Washington the Scene of the Shooting.

Full Particulars of the Desperate Deed.

The President's Condition Very Critical.

But "God Reigns and the Government at Washington Still Lives."

NEWS OF THE SHOOTING.

WASHINGTON, July 2. The president was shot twice, one ball entered from the rear to one side and is believed to have passed through the kidneys. The doctors hold out some hope of possible recovery, but it is plain that they feel little if any hope. One shot went through the arm. The president talked to a reporter just now and said he felt pretty strong considering his wounds, but complained of a tingling sensation in his feet as annoying him more than anything else. The man who shot him wrote his name on a card as attorney at law, Chicago. Washington is wild with excitement, and the whole populace is gathered around the Baltimore and Potomac depot.

WASHINGTON, July 2, 10:30 a. m. The president is now being conveyed to the executive mansion under a strong escort of metropolitan police. Two companies of regulars from the Washington barracks have been ordered out to preserve quiet. Great excitement prevails, and the streets are thronged with anxious inquirers anxious to learn the condition of the president.

The shooting occurred in the presence of some fifty ladies.

There is a rumor now that the shooting was done by an ex-consul to Marseilles, Gitteaux, who was removed from office. The pistol with which the firing was done is a California weapon of extremely heavy calibre, better known as a "Bulldozer."

The president has been made

AS COMFORTABLE AS POSSIBLE

in his chamber at the White house and all persons are excluded from the grounds surrounding the mansion, as immense crowds surround the grounds. The physicians are now (10:30) holding a consultation.

SPECIAL DETAILS.

CHICAGO, July 2.—The following are the special details, but not so late as you have already had. At 9:30 this morning when President Garfield was at the Baltimore and Potomac depot, waiting to take the train, he was by a man who stood within two feet of him. The president's friends rushed to him as he fell, and Blaine called for Rockwell. Station Agent Carroy arrested the assassin, who said, "I did it;

SHOT TWICE

I AM A STALWART,

and Arthur is now president. Take a letter I have here to General Sherman, and he will tell you about it." The man evidently had deliberately planned the assassination with the idea, so far as can now be ascertained, of making Arthur president.

HOW THE SHOOTING WAS DONE.

President Garfield went to the Baltimore and Potomac station at twenty minutes past nine, intending, with a reporter of his cabinet, to leave on the limited express for New York. The president had alighted from his carriage and was passing through the ladies' room to the cars. When about five feet inside of the room, the assassin, who was of him, fired one shot. The president was dazed and made no attempt at self-protection. Blaine had turned toward the door. The assassin fired a second shot in ten seconds. The president fell, and Mrs. White, who attends the ladies' waiting room, rushed to him and raised his head.

WITHIN TWO FEET

BLAINE ALSO RUSHED to the assistance of the president. The assassin passed out toward B street but Captain Parks, the ticket agent, jumped through the window and and immediately afterward Officer Scott also took hold of him. Parks let the officers have him and turned his attention to the president.

CAUGHT THE ASSASSIN

HELP ARRIVES.

Help came, and the president was taken up stairs. He said not a word until he was laid down. He asked that his shoes be taken off, saying he felt a pain in his feet. As soon as his shoes were removed he said to Secretary Windom, "Go right now and telegraph to Mrs. Garfield, saying I feel considerably better, and if she feels well enough tell her to immediately." This dispatch was sent and a special train was at once sent to Long Branch for Mrs. Garfield.

COME TO WASHINGTON

SECRETARY BLAINE'S ACCOUNT.

Secretary Blaine was not going with the party but went down to bid the president good-bye. He said "the president and I were walking arm in arm toward the train. I heard two shots and saw a man run. I started after him but seeing that he was grabbed just as he got out of the room I came to the president and found him lying on the floor. The floor was covered with the president's blood. A number of the people who were around shortly afterwards have some of that blood on their persons. I think I know the man. I think he is Gitteaux. The weapon used was a revolver about seven inches long. It has an ivory handle. Calibre very large. It is what is known as a California pistol. It made a very loud report. Parks says both shots were fired while the assassin was behind the president. When the officers, Scott and Carney, got hold of the assassin and were taking him to police headquarters, he said voluntarily to them,

"I DID IT,

and will go to jail for it.

I AM A STALWART,

and Arthur will be president." He had a letter in his hand, and wanted the officers to take it to General Sherman, saying it would be all right. The prisoner made no resistance, saying that he had

CONTEMPLATED KILLING THE PRESIDENT and it was for the good of the country. About nine o'clock the assassin went to a hack stand adjoining the depot, and engaged a hack from Barton, a colored hackman. He said he wanted to go to Glenwood cemetery in a short time, and wanted the hackman to

DRIVE VERY FAST

when he should get in the hack. He agreed to pay $2 for the hack on condition that the hackman would drive fast. When stopped the assassin was going to the hack he had engaged, and he insisted that it was important for him to go and deliver a message to General Sherman. When the officers refused to let him go he begged them to he had to General Sherman. The following is a copy of the letter the assassin wanted delivered to General Sherman:

TAKE A LETTER

THE MURDERER'S MISSIVE.

WASHINGTON, July 2, 1881.

To the White House:

The president's tragic death was a sad necessity, but it will unite the republican party and save the republic. Life is a flimsy dream, and it matters little when one goes. A human life is of small value. During the war thousands of brave boys went down without a tear. I presume the president was a Christian and that he will be happier in paradise than here. It will be no worse for Mrs. Garfield, dear soul, to part with her husband this way than by natural death. He is liable to go at any time, any way. I have no ill will toward the president, his death was a political necessity. I am a lawyer, a theologian and a politician. I am interested with the stalwarts. I was with General Grant and the rest of our men in New York during canvass. I have some papers for the press which I shall leave with Byron Andrews, Inter-Ocean correspondent, and his co-journalist at No. 1,420 New York avenue, where all reporters can see them. I am going to the jail.

CHARLES GITTEAUX.

GITTEAUX'S PAPERS.

The papers referred to in the Gitteaux letter to Sherman have not yet been given out for publication. Byron Andrews, who is the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Inter-Ocean, says that while it is true a package of papers are in the hands of the police, accompanied by a note addressed to him (Andrews), he has no personal acquaintance with Gitteaux, and never heard of his existence until this morning.

ANOTHER LETTER.

The following letter was found on the streets shortly after Gitteaux's arrest. The envelope was unsealed and addressed: "Please deliver at once to General Sherman or his first assistant in charge of the department." The letter was as follows:

General Sherman: I have just shot the president. I wish him to go as easily as possible, his death was a political necessity. I am a lawyer, theologian and politician. I am a stalwart of stalwarts. I was with Grant and the rest of our men in New York during the canvass. I am going to jail. Please order out troops to take possession of the jail at once."

INTENSE INTEREST.

CHICAGO, July 2.—Reports of excitement are pouring in from every country village and universal interest is evinced by telegrams of inquiry.

BUT FEW CHANCES.

WASHINGTON, July 2, 2:45 p. m.—Doctor Beckwith, an old physician of the president, says that President Garfield has but few chances of recovery, and that he may not live twelve hours. The general impression at the executive mansion is that the president is sinking.

PHYSICIANS IN ATTENDANCE.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The following physicians are in consultation at the executive mission: Drs. Bliss, Hord, Huntingdon, Woodward, U. S. A.; Townsend, Lincoln, Boyburn, Norris, Purvis, Patterson, Surgeon-General Barnes and Surgeon-General Wales. Bulletins of the president's condition from the executive mansion will hereafter be telegraphed every half hour.

SPECIAL CAR FOR MRS. GARFIELD.

PHILADELPHIA, June 2.—The Pennsylvania railway ordered a locomotive and car at Jersey City to carry Mrs. Garfield to Washington. She had arranged to meet her husband in Jersey City to-day, and left Long Branch this morning on the Central road for Jersey City. A message informing her of the attempted assassination is awaiting her arrival at the latter place. There is much excitement here.

GRIEF OF MRS. GARFIELD.

LONG BRANCH, July 2. General Grant has just arrived and expressed deep regret at the attempted assassination of the president. Mrs. Garfield is almost frantic over the news. Her physicians allow her to see none of the serious dispatches but dictate hopeful ones to her. A dispatch to General Grant has relieved Mrs. Garfield's anxiety. It says the president's wounds not mortal, he being shot in the arm and hip. Mrs. Garfield will depart on a special train for Washington at one o'clock. She is now much more composed. Dr. Bliss has just telegraphed that the wounds are not necessarily mortal.

SYMPTOMS UNFAVORABLE.

WASHINGTON, July 2—2:15 P. M.—The president's symptoms at this time are unfavorable. It is thought there is internal hemorrhage.

WASHINGTON, July 2—2:30 P. M.—The president's symptoms continue to grow more unfavorable.

GRANT'S WORDS.

LONG BRANCH, July 2. General Grant in speaking about the attempted assassination says: "If this is an outgrowth of nihilism in our country I am in favor of crushing out the enemy by the prompt execution of the would-be assassin and their followers."

FEARS OF HIS DEATH.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Hon. Sam'l Shellbarger who has just left the bedside of the president says that there is absolutely no hope of his rallying, his symptoms are growing more and more alarming. His death is thought to be very near.

ABSOLUTELY NO HOPE.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Surgeon General Barnes says there is absolutely no hope of the recovery of the president. He is probably the best man in the country to judge of a case like this.

INTERVIEWS WITH PROMINENT MEN.

NEW YORK, July 2. A reporter called at the Fifth Avenue hotel this morning about an hour after the reception of the dispatch announcing the shooting of the president, and sent his card to the rooms of

ARTHUR AND CONKLING.

Word was immediately returned that the subject of the president's assassination was to be talked of on the moment, and neither would be seen under any circumstances. The reporter saw Conkling in the hallway near his room a few minutes after. When asked his opinion of the shooting he

TOO SERIOUS A SUBJECT

BEGGED TO BE EXCUSED.—

"The news has found me so unprepared and overwhelmed with that it almost stunned me. May God grant it may not be true. It is the most terrible incident in our history since the death of Lincoln. If it is true, may heaven help our country." Conkling turned away and went to his room.

PERSONAL CARES

MURAT HALSTED,

who is at present stopping at the Brevoort house, said this morning when the news was given him that he was

HORROR STRUCK.

He looked at the reporter for a moment and cried out that it could not be true. On receiving assurance that the report had been substantiated by official dispatches Halsted turned pale and said with tears in his eyes that he must have time to think of it.

MY GOD!

how can such things happen in a free country. We have no nihilists here seeking to overthrow the government. We have had peace for many years and are

IN THE MIDST OF PEACE.

I can't understand it, I can only pray Heaven that it is not true."

COLLECTOR MERRITT.

NEW YORK, July 2. Collector Merritt was much agitated and remarked when asked as to the political significance of the event answered: "When the president dies Arthur is president."

THE NEWS IN BOSTON.

BOSTON, July 2.—The news of the attempted assassination of the president caused the most intense excitement in this city and crowds surrounded the newspaper offices all of which have issued extras. In the early part of the morning business on every hand. The later favorable news that the president was not dead, in a measure quieted the excitement.

WAS SUSPENDED

THE ASSASSIN IN CHICAGO.—

CHICAGO, July 2.—A gentleman here to-marked: "I remember Charles Gitteaux. He was here two or three years ago, and seemed to have no visible means of support. He preached, or lectured, on religion and on several subjects, upon which he was an enthusiast. He started in here as a lawyer, but utterly failed, and then tried to let himself into notoriety by lecturing on religion one evening in each week. His card in the newspapers is produced and is a literary curiosity. He bored the newspapers by trying to get his manuscript printed. He failed also as a lecturer and then began life of the more respectable order. He was branded by the Hotel Keepers' association as a dead beat. In appearance he is an American, of French extraction, thirty-five to forty years old, of medium height, slender build, fair complexion, brown hair, French shaped moustache and tinged with gray. His whole appearance was that of a dandified man of

AS A TRAMP

SMALL MENTAL CALIBRE.

He was unusually fond of notoriety and would go almost any length to get his name in the papers. He was arrested here once for embezzlement. He got the idea in his head that he was fit for an official position and has been trying with all his power to get a consulate at Marseilles.

AN UGLY RASCAL.

Gitteaux's sunken cheeks and eyes far apart from each other give him a sullen, or as an official described it, "a stony appearance." The officer in question stated that he has noticed this to be a peculiarity of nearly all murderers; that their eyes are set far apart, and Gitteaux, he said, proves no exception to the rule. When the prisoner arrived at the jail he was attired in a suit of blue, and wore a drab hat, pulled down over his eyes giving him the appearance of an ugly character. It may be worthy of note to state that some two or three weeks ago Gitteaux went to the jail for the purpose of but was refused admittance on the ground that it was not visitor's day. He at that time mentioned his name as Gitteaux and said he came from Chicago. When brought to jail to-day he was admitted by the officer who had previously refused to allow him to enter, and a took place, Gitteaux saying, "You are the man who wouldn't let me go through the jail some time ago." The only other remark he made before being placed in the cell was that General Sherman would arrive at the jail soon. The two jailers, who are now guarding his cell, state that they have seen him around the jail several times recently, and that on one occasion he appeared to be under the influence of liquor.

VISITING IT,

MUTUAL RECOGNITION

MORBID CURIOSITY.

The officers say that Gitteaux succeeded in reaching the rotunda of the jail, where he was noticed examining the scaffold from which the fifth murderers were hanged.

SAID OFFICER RETICENT.

Pursuant to orders from the attorney general the officer in charge of the jail declined to give any further information, nor would he state in what cell the prisoner was confined. This officer was an attendant at the old city jail at the time of the assassination of President Lincoln.

EMERY STORRS' OPINION.

CHICAGO, July 2. Storrs says there is no way of punishing the assassin who is surely a lunatic to his personal knowledge. The only thing possible is to shut him up in an asylum for he is dangerous. He as well as refuses an interview on the results contingent on the death of the president; neither seemed to take a very gloomy view of the situation.

ASPIRING TO THE STUMP.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Thurlow Weed, of the Albany Evening Journal, says that Gitteaux, the man who shot President Garfield, called upon him last October, and asked for a chance to speak on the stump for the republican national ticket. Gitteaux said he had been employed by the republican state committee to do work at their rooms in New York, and that he was on his way there. Barnes questioned him closely at the time, and not liking his looks told E. W. Johnson, secretary of the state committee, that he believed Gitteaux to be a fraud. Johnson made a memorandum, and said he would look into the case. Barnes was chairman of the county committee. Gitteaux said he came from Chicago.

CHARACTER OF THE WOUNDS.

Dr. Townsend, health officer, was the first to reach the president. The president was shot from the right as he left the ladies' reception room of the depot with Secretary Blaine. The ball entered above the third rib, but whether it has taken its course toward the spine has not yet been ascertained. The wound was probed by Dr. Bliss, who reports that in inserting the probe the course of the ball did not extend toward the spine, still it is not certain that it didn't. It was the unanimous opinion of the physicians that the need for the president was not the probing of the wound, but rest. The of the wound is not yet known, and more can be told when urine passes as to whether the kidneys are injured or not.

EXTENT AND DANGER

LOCAL INDIGNATION.

How the News was Received in This City.

Eager Readers of the Gazette Bulletins.

At eight o'clock this morning the first telegram announcing the attempted assassination of President Garfield was received at the Western Union office in this city. The telegrams continued to come at intervals of fifteen minutes, and as they were received bulletins were printed and circulated upon the streets by the GAZETTE. The first one circulated the following: "President Garfield was shot twice at the B. & O. R. R. depot, Washington, this morning. No particulars. Garfield is dying."

In less than ten minutes from the time that the first bulletin was issued by the GAZETTE, a large crowd had gathered in front of the GAZETTE office anxious to hear further particulars. Excited people ran to and fro upon the streets conveying the news to whomsoever they met. Some of the merchants went so far as to place the bulletins issued by the GAZETTE upon their door posts draped in mourning. For over two hours the crowd besieged the GAZETTE.

BULLETIN NO. 2,

received about nine o'clock, conveyed the following: Colonel Corbin has just passed in the president's carriage, on the way to the Baltimore and Ohio railroad depot, with a physician. Shortly after this bulletin was placed upon the street, some one started the rumor that the president was dead. It flew like wildfire and gained general circulation before it could be suppressed by contradictory news from authentic sources. Every street corner and public place was thronged with people, anxious to hear further news. "Who was the assassin, and what was the probable cause?" was the question asked by many. Some advanced the idea that Conkling and the stalwarts were at the bottom of it. Others credited it to the Star route scoundrels, while others were inclined to cast political issues to one side and attach the blame to some insane person. At 10 o'clock bulletin No. 3 was received and read to the crowd in front of the GAZETTE office, which by this time numbered some three hundred. This bulletin stated that Dr. Bliss, the physician in attendance, did not concede the wound a mortal one. When this announcement was made the faces of many brightened up, and some departed for their homes rather relieved. Those remaining still clamored for further particulars, but as the bulletins received were very indifferent, nothing could be given them.

BULLETIN NO. 3

received only a few moments after No. 2 contained the information that the president was not dead and that the man who had attempted the assassination was under arrest, but the dispatch did not give the name of the man or the cause of the attempt.

BULLETIN NO. 4.

One wound in shoulder other in back, and ball lodged in abdomen. Not necessarily fatal. Assassin's name is Charles Gitteaux. The crowd in front of the GAZETTE office had by this time somewhat diminished although many remained until twelve o'clock. Here the bulletins ceased to come in and it was announced that the GAZETTE would publish an extra in the afternoon should sufficient news be received to warrant the same. At no time during the day did the excitement caused by the rumor cease upon the streets, and groups of people were continually gathering upon the street corners, talking of the sad affair.

ANXIETY TO READ THE NEWS.

It was announced upon the streets at three o'clock yesterday afternoon that the GAZETTE would at six o'clock issue an extra edition containing all the important news received up to that time concerning the shooting of President Garfield. Long before the time set for the publication of the extra there were numerous enquiries at the office for the same. When they did appear the press could not turn them out fast enough to supply the demand for them, and in less than one hour the newsboys had sold the whole edition, numbering over 800 copies.

ONE WHO KNOWS THE ASSASSIN.

Mr. G. F. Stevens, of Chicago, who is visiting in the city, called at the GAZETTE office last evening and stated that he was personally acquainted with Charles Gitteaux in Chicago, in 1876. He kindly offered to give us any information concerning him that would be of interest to the public. He confirms the reputation that our press dispatches give him. While in Chicago, he, Gitteaux, was known as a boarding house beat of the very first water. He would put in his appearance at a boarding house without any baggage but always well dressed, and by his pleasant manner and affable address would at once initiate himself into the good graces of the landlady. His stay at a house was generally of about three weeks' duration, in which time the landlady would realize what character of man he was, and then turn him adrift. He would go from house to house, practicing the same delusion, and in the course of time he became too well known to the Chicago landladies, and left for Washington. Mr. Stevens on two different occasions was boarding at houses from which Gitteaux was expelled for the non-payment of board. While in Chicago Gitteaux professed to be an attorney at law, but he did little if any practice.

Gitteaux absented himself from Chicago for some time and when Mr. Stevens next saw him it was at the Moody revival meeting held in Chicago in the winter of 1876. He at that time seemed quite an enthusiast on the subject of religion, his special topic being the second advent of Christ. He told Mr. Stevens that he had prepared an interesting lecture on this subject and if the American people would not give him attention he would go to England and advocate the cause. Gitteaux was also given to advocating temperance upon the street corners, but it was not generally thought that he was sincere on this topic.

FIREMEN'S TOURNAMENT.

Yesterday's Contest Between the Two Hose Companies.

The much-talked-of race between the W. S. Jackson and Matt France Hose companies, for a nickel-plated nozzle, offered by Messrs. Alexander & Russell, took place on the Nevada avenue track, at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Messrs. B. F. Crowell, A. Segendorf and Charles Walker were chosen judges, and Messrs. J. H. Bacon, G. S. Robbins and John Hall were selected for time-keepers. Both companies had been in constant practice for several weeks, during which time they had both made some excellent bursts of speed. It was universally conceded that the race would be a close one, in fact so close that few ventured to bet money on the result, and as a consequence but little money changed hands. Ropes had been stretched upon either side of the track from the starting point on Pike's Peak avenue to the terminus just south of Huerfano, back of which the spectators were compelled to stand. Special officers, composed principally of firemen were stationed at various points along the line to see that the spectators were kept back of the ropes. The W. S. Jackson won the toss, which gave them the advantage of second start.

According to tournament rules the race was to be 500 feet straight, uncoil 250 foot of hose, attach to plug and get water.

Shortly after two o'clock the Matt. France drew their cart into position at the starting point. They were attired in blue and white and presented a very attractive appearance. After some little delay they got a good start and came down the course amid the cheers of the spectators, passing the plug in 22 seconds. An excellent connection was made at the hydrant and the water rushed through the hose class upon the heels of the runners. A murmur went through the crowd when it was discovered that the company had failed to secure water. The members of the company at first thought that they had been misled by a distance mark on the track, but it was subsequently ascertained that there were but four sections of hose, instead of the requisite number of five, upon the reel. When the company made their practice run in the morning they were confident that they had 300 feet of hose upon the cart when it was returned to the hose house. That it had been tampered with in the meantime was the general opinion of the company, but by whom they were unable to say. Although the defeat under the circumstances was discouraging, the France boys took it in good grace, and but little was said about it on the track.

Several timers at the end of the track gave 35½ as the time made by the Matt France company, but the judges gave no time, as they failed to secure water. As soon as the excitement had subsided, the W. S. Jacksons took their position at the end of the track, and were ready for the word go. The members were attired in white, with blue trunks, and red handkerchiefs upon their heads. Before starting they knew they would get the nozzle, but this did not prevent them to stint their running in the least, and they came down the track in excellent style, passing the plug in twenty and one-half seconds. From the hydrant to the terminus considerable time was lost, and water was secured in 31½ seconds, thus giving them the race. The judges in rendering their decision awarded the nickel plated nozzle to the W. S. Jackson. The second prize, $10 in gold, also offered by Messrs. Russell & Alexander, was not granted to the Matt France company as they had failed to secure time.

THE HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

Very Interesting Meeting Last Evening.

The regular meeting of this society took place last evening in Colonel Ensign's office, on Tejon street. Owing to a misunderstanding in regard to the place of meeting, the attendance was not so large as usual. Mr. Ege exhibited fine samples of rhubarb, beets, peas, turnip, Smith's improved gooseberries, etc. Major McAllister exhibited Smith's improved gooseberries, Red Dutch currants, and Early Richmond cherries. Mr. Bush showed splendid currants, both white and red cherry, and a beautiful sample of Early Richmond cherries.

The water question was discussed at some length by President Parsons, Mr. Snyder, Mr. Wood and others.

The meeting adjourned to meet on Saturday evening, July 16, in the council room in the new Opera house.

PRESIDENT GARFIELD.

Not since the brutal assassination of President Lincoln, sixteen years ago, has the country been so shocked as it was to-day when the news that President Garfield was shot and probably fatally injured came flashing over the wires. The feeling was one of personal grief; irrespective of party all keenly felt the blow and from every one arose expressions of deepest horror and sympathy and regret. The hope is universally expressed the wound will not prove fatal, and every telegram with its important communication is closely watched and anxiously waited for.

We must necessarily publish only imperfect and vague reports. We can give no news calculated to allay fears of the death of the president, for the telegrams are not positive, and the actual condition of the sufferer is difficult to determine. That the wound is painful and likely to become mortal seems an assured fact. A man must be possessed of an iron constitution to withstand the effects of such a shooting. The assassin was so near, his determination so great, and his opportunity so unlimited, that it will be wonderful, indeed, if the president is able to recover. At last accounts his condition was becoming more critical, and as one reads of his suffering, his tender thought for wife and family, the passions are stirred to deepest depths. While the whole sympathy is for the wounded president, for his murderer only hate and a wild desire to avenge the deed is manifested.

It is too early to assign causes for the deed. The most charitable excuse possible is that it was the result of a disordered mind. There seems to be no possible reason why any sane being should commit an act so barbaric and so unusual. The president is universally liked, and there was no political excitement of importance enough to make enemies who would adopt methods so atrocious. It is not time to judge one, nor any faction. To blame one party, is to accuse unjustly. The facts must be fully known before any definite opinion can be given. It will be true we think that no one was the instigator of the crime, and it must be that the assassination was the work of only one man, and that the deed was planned by him alone. For the good name of our republic we hope this may be so.

We refrain from all obituary notice. While hope remains that the life we honor may be spared, we shrink from performing that duty which would so grieve us all. But the thought of what the consequences would be should the president die cannot be forced from our minds. All know the faction which would be elevated to power, and there is regret that the thought of who would be president cannot be a pleasant one. Garfield would be an almost irreparable loss, and his successor, alas too late, we realize the fact, is not one we would choose.

THE VICE-PRESIDENT.

Aside from sympathy and a sense of personal loss; outside of all fears that the business of the country would suffer by the death of the president, there has been general alarm felt at the thought of Chester Arthur becoming Garfield's successor. No one seems to have any confidence in the man, nor does he deserve it. He has never been conspicuous as a statesman, and there is no reason to believe that he would as president suddenly develop any executive powers, or that he would be worthy to occupy the important position of chief magistrate. He has never been above petty political tricks, and his nomination was a disappointment to the country at the time it was made. Since coming into office he has done all in his power to disgrace his position, and instead of attending to his legitimate business he has plotted against his superior officer, and has done his best to defeat his nominations. Too weak-minded to have an opinion of his own, he has allowed himself to become the tool of a superior intellect.

But whether qualified to occupy the position or not, the fact remains that if General Garfield does not survive his wounds, the vice president will by law succeed him. Nothing can be done but to accept the inevitable. In nominating a man whom no one at the time believed worthy of the office, the republicans made a fatal mistake. Death of the president was not properly taken into consideration. If the country is spared the necessity of seeing Arthur succeed the president, the nomination of a vice president in the future will always be properly considered, as it is too important an office to be given without consideration and judgment. It is not necessary to call attention to the evils which might arise should the president die and one opposed to his course succeed him. Radical changes which might possibly affect the peace and prosperity of the country can be made, and investigations stopped, while the entire policy could be changed.

It is possible that Arthur would disappoint those who predict that his course of action would be detrimental to the country's welfare. But we cannot afford to try the experiment, and it is the duty, the plain duty of the leaders of the party, not to nominate one who cannot occupy the president's chair with the confidence of the people behind him. It seems as though there had been people enough already given. We trust that we are not to have another and a several one.

OFFICIAL BULLETIN NO. 1.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, July 2, 9:20 p. m.—The president has rallied a little within the past three-quarters of an hour, and his symptoms are a little more favorable. He continues brave and cheerful. About the time he began to rally he said to Dr. Bliss: "Doctor, what are the indications?"

Dr. Bliss replied, "There is a chance of recovery."

"Well then," replied the president cheerfully, "we will take that chance."

The president is now sleeping.

BULLETIN NO. 2.

WASHINGTON, 10.40 p. m., July 2.—The president's symptoms continue to grow more favorable and to afford more ground for hope. His temperature is now normal. His pulse has fallen four beats since the last official bulletin and the absence of blood in discharges from the bladder shows that that organ is not injured, as had been feared.

BULLETIN NO. 3.

WASHINGTON, 11 p. m., July 2.—The president is resting quietly and is cheerful. Pulse 124; temperature 99; respiration 20. All symptoms are favorable.

BULLETIN NO. 4.

WASHINGTON, July 2, 11 p. m. Mrs. Garfield arrived here at 6:45 p. m., and although still weak from her recent illness and shocked by the suddenness of the grief which has come to her, has behaved since her arrival with courage and self-control equal to her husband's. Not only has she not given way to the terror and grief which she necessarily feels, but she has been constantly by the president's side to encourage him with her presence and sympathy. She has given efficient aid so far as it has been in her power to the attending physicians.

BULLETIN NO. 5.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, 2:30 a. m.—The president has been quiet, sleeping much of the time since 9 p. m., awaking for a few minutes every half hour. He has not vomited since 1 o'clock, and is now taking some nourishment for the first time since his injury. Pulse 124; temperature normal; respiration 18.

BULLETIN NO. 6.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, 8 a. m., July 2.—Attending physicians feel so hopeful now that another bulletin will not be issued until 9 a. m.

INSURED IN JAIL.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The district jail in the eastern extremity of the city, was visited by a reporter after 11 o'clock for the purpose of obtaining an interview with Charles Guiteau, the would-be assassin of President Garfield. The officers to the building, stating as a reason therefor that they were acting under orders received from the attorney general, the purport of which was that no one should be allowed to see the prisoner. At first indeed the officers emphatically denied that the man had been conveyed to the jail, fearing, it appears, that should the fact be made known that he was there the building would be ATTACKED BY A MOB.

REFUSED ADMITTANCE

Information had reached them that such a move was contemplated. A large guard composed of regulars from the barracks and the metropolitan police force are momentarily expected to arrive at the jail to be in readiness to repel any attack. The statement that the assassin is Gilteaux was verified by the officer in charge of the jail. The prisoner arrived and was about 10:30 o'clock, just one hour after the shooting occurred.

DEATH IN HIS FACE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 2. City Postmaster Alinger, who was present at the shooting, is quoted as saying: "I have been in many a battle, and have seen men mortally wounded, and never one with a face that more clearly showed certain death than the president's."

RESOLUTIONS IN THE NEW YORK LEGISLATURE.

ALBANY, July 2. A dispatch was received in the assembly at 12 o'clock, saying that the president was conscious, but the result was doubtful. The doubt of the president's recovery caused great sadness in the assembly. After the reading of the journal Murphy moved that the house till five minutes of twelve. He said he made the motion in consideration of the troublous news received from Washington. He then referred to the progress of General Garfield from the towpath to the presidency, and said the horror of the act just committed was too great for expression and too stupendous for adequate punishment. The minority of this house would mingle their feelings of regret with those of the entire country, and would offer in the senate the following resolution:

TAKE A RECESS

RESOLVED: That we tender our heartfelt sympathy to the president and his family and at the same time express our horror and indignation at the atrocious attempt made upon his life.

McCarty said while he agreed with much of the resolution yet he wished to defer any expression of indignation until the particulars were received from the White house. He however did not object to the resolution which was then adopted by a viva voce vote. The senate took a recess.

READING DISPATCHES.

During recess Robertson received associated press dispatches which were read from the desk, the senators and employes gathering about the reader. Similar resolutions were passed by the assembly.

SHERMAN'S INDORSEMENT.

On receipt of the above General Sherman gave it the following indorsement:

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY,
WASHINGTON, July 2, 1881, 11:30 a. m.

This letter was handed me this minute by Major Wm. J. Quirving, United States Engineer Commissioner of the District of Columbia, and Major Wm. O. Beck, chief of police. I don't know the writer, never heard of him to my knowledge, and thereby return to the keeping of the above named parties as testimony in the case.

[L. S.] W. T. SHERMAN.

ANXIOUS INQUIRIES FROM TOWNS AND CITIES.

CINCINNATI, O., July 2.—Inquiries come from all parts of the country for news. Every news center is thronged. Intense sorrow is manifested.

HAMILTON, July 2. Many people are deeply stirred by profound grief and indignation.

LITTLE ROCK, July 2.—The news created intense excitement and universal sorrow at the atrocious deed. A citizens' meeting was called.

DETROIT, July 2.—There is deep excitation, mingled with excitement, and the greatest sorrow for the president.

PITTSBURG, July 2.—There is intense excitement on the streets.

BROOKLYN, July 2.—Business has been suspended in this city.

BALTIMORE, July 2.—The excitement in the city has become intense.

DENVER, July 2. Crowds of people surrounded the bulletin boards at the telegraph office and newspaper offices to-night. A citizens meeting was held at the district court rooms to-night. Governor Routt, Judge Symmes, the Hon. I. E. Barnum, and others delivered addresses, after which a committee of ten was appointed to draft resolutions. The meeting then adjourned, subject to the call of the committee.

CONDOLENCE FROM GRANVILLE.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Sir Edward Thornton and Mrs. Victor Drummond called on the secretary of state who was in attendance upon the president at the executive mansion between four and five o'clock and delivered to him a copy of the following dispatch with many expressions of deep sorrow at the great tragedy:

LONDON, July 2.

To Thornton, Washington:

Is it true President Garfield has been shot? If so express at once the great concern of her majesty's government and our hope that the report that he has sustained serious injury is not true. [Signed.] EARL GRANVILLE.

Foreign office.

AN ALLEGED CONSPIRACY.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—There is a theory which has many adherents that the attempted assassination was not the work of a lunatic, but the result of a plot much

DEEPER AND DARKER

than has been suspected. It is stated in support of this theory that Gilteaux arranged beforehand with a hackman to be in readiness to drive him swiftly in the direction of the the congressional cemetery as he made his appearance on returning from the depot. In the meantime he placed a bundle of papers in the hands of a boy, with a view, it is maintained, to creating a belief in his insanity in the event of his capture. Gilteaux said on his way to jail that the president's assassination

WAS PREMEDITATED,

and he went to Long Branch for the purpose of shooting him there, and was deterred by the enfeebled and saddened condition of Mrs. Garfield, which appealed so strongly to his sense of humanity that he came back without carrying out his intention. Those by whom Gilteaux has been examined since the shooting say he shows

NO SYMPTOMS OF INSANITY

and it is understood that the letter which has already been telegraphed, addressed to the White house is the only document in the collection which supports the theory of insanity. It is reported that Gilteaux whose description is in the hands of the police and further developments are anxiously looked for.

HAD AN ACCOMPLICE

ARTHUR NOTIFIED.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Vice President Arthur and Conkling, arrived from Albany by boat this morning. The boat was late, not arriving until about 10 o'clock. As soon as she touched the wharf a telegram was handed Arthur. Upon reading it he dropped back in his chair greatly shocked. It is presumed the telegram announced the shooting of President Garfield.

INDIANA EXCITEMENT.

NEW YORK, July 2. The news of the shooting of President Garfield reached police headquarters simultaneously with the report that the president was dead, amid the almost excitement. The story spread from mouth to mouth, and was listened to at first with incredulity, but as fresh confirmation of the rumor arrived

INDIGNATION TOOK ITS PLACE.

Mr. Nichols, the only commissioner in the building, hastily left for down town in search of fuller information. The reported assassination caused a total suspension of business in the department offices. The clerks and employes gathered in knots in the halls to discuss the situation and to keep a lookout for fresh news, when at length a message came announcing the president

NOT MORTALLY WOUNDED.

A shout of "God be thanked!" went up. Superintendent Walling struck his desk with his doubled fist a sounding blow and shouted "God," in a voice that could be heard through half the building. His venerable face fairly glowed with joy, and from all sides were heard the one expression, "If President Garfield lives he will be the most popular president the country has ever had." Along later, when the excitement had calmed down somewhat, came the particulars of the assassination and of the murder which were received greedily. Business for to-day was at an end at the police headquarters.

The news down town was received with consternation and caused much excitement on Wall street. Brokers and bankers almost forgot everything in their eagerness to get further particulars. They besieged Kiernan's news agency, on Broad street, where dispatches from Washington were constantly arriving and being distributed. Groups were seen in the streets discussing the subject anxiously, and newsboys did a heavy business in extras. At the opening of the stock exchange the news depressed the market, but further dispatches announcing the wounded president was in a fair way to recover and was not so dangerously wounded as at first reported caused a reaction.

THE NEWS AT LONG BRANCH.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., July 2. So far the only particulars received of the shooting of the president is learned from the following dispatch:

GEN. SWAN: We have the president safely and comfortably settled in his room at the executive mansion. His pulse is strong and nearly normal. So far as I can take aim from what the surgeons say, and from his general condition, I feel VERY HOPEFUL.

Come on as soon as you can get a special. Advise of movements of your train and when you can be expected. As the president said on a similar occasion, sixteen years ago,

"GOD REIGNS,"

and the government at Washington still lives.

A. F. ROCKWELL.

EFFECT ON STOCKS.

NEW YORK, July 2, 11 a. m. Stocks opened generally firm but free. A selling movement was soon inaugurated by the entire list of brokers, and rapidly under the Washington news stocks declined 1 and 1½.

OFFICIAL BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The following official bulletin has just been issued:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, July 2 12.35 p. m.—The reaction from the shock of the injury has been very gradual. He is suffering some pain, but it is thought best not to disturb him by making any exploration for the ball until after the consultation at 3 p. m.

NO ADMISSION.

WASHINGTON, July 2. It is utterly impossible to gain access to the White House, the police and soldiers being all around it and will not let any one but cabinet officers in. There is communication by telephone which is the only way to reach them.

SENDING THE NEWS TO EUROPE.

WASHINGTON, July 2. The following has been forwarded by cable:

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
WASHINGTON, July 2.

To Jas. Russell Lowell, Minister at London:

The president of the United States was shot this morning by an assassin named Charles Gilteaux. The weapon was a large sized revolver. The president had just reached here.

THE ASSASSIN'S ANTECEDENTS.

CHICAGO, July 2.—Chas. Gilteaux, the man who attempted the life of the president, has been more or less known in Chicago for the past ten years. He was a disreputable lawyer, and has generally been considered half insane. He went to New York seven or eight years ago. Upon his return, in 1876, he professed to have been converted, and delivered several lectures under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association. He next appeared at the head of a scheme to buy the Chicago Inter-Ocean, and run it on the plan of the New York Herald, but as he had neither capital or backing, the matter was soon dropped by him. He left for Washington several months ago.

SENSATIONAL BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, July 2, 1 p. m.—Private advices say the president's condition is more serious than any of the dispatches intimate. According to this, which is reliable news, he is almost necessarily fatally hurt.

AN OPINION.

A private dispatch says Dr. Bliss asserts the wounds are not necessarily mortal.

REACTION GRADUAL.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, 12.35 p. m. The reaction from the shock of the injury has been very gradual. The president is suffering some pain but it is thought best not to disturb him by making any exploration for the ball until after the consultation at 3 p. m.

WASHINGTON, July 2, 4 p. m. The following official bulletin has been issued: The president's condition is somewhat less favorable, evidences of internal hemorrhage being distinctly recognized. Pulse 130, temperature 96. That is a little below the normal. He suffers rather more pain, but his mind is perfectly clear.

(Signed,) D. W. BLISS.

SENSATION IN CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, July 2. Although the news of the president's attempted assassination was received only a few moments in advance of the reassuring dispatch as to his condition, there was a sensation created and excitement manifested only second to that when President Lincoln was assassinated in April, '65. It spread from corner to corner as if by magic and in a twinkling the bulletin boards of telegraph and news offices were besieged by eager and excited crowds who quickly communicated their information to distant friends by means of telephones. Telegraph business was entirely suspended for a while and each man's business was to learn and spread the news. Never has the of the people for the president been more effectually demonstrated. There was an effort on the curbstones, where there was a good deal of trading, to use the news to affect stocks and grain.

Execrations and curses were heaped on the head of Gilteaux by some, but the general opinion seemed to be that he was a crazy fool, crazier even than when he lived here. There was at every street corner an involuntary expression of sorrow as unfavorable news and details came in, and there were hearty as it was announced that the president's condition was favorable. Said a wealthy iron manufacturerer, "I wish I had him in my foundry so that I could throw him into my boiling pot of molten iron." There are many recollections of Charles J. Gilteaux, which is his correct name, who lived here several years and acquired an unenviable reputation.

CHEERS AND CONGRATULATIONS

THE NEWS IN MEMPHIS.

MEMPHIS, Tennessee, July 2. The news of the attempted assassination of President Garfield causes great excitement in this city. Large crowds gathered in the streets and around the telegraph office, awaiting full details of the crime. All classes are outspoken in condemnation of the dastardly act.

WASHINGTON, 12:10 P. M. The president continues to improve.

Whereas, Henry McAllister, Jr., of Colorado Springs, did on the 25th day of February, 1878, execute a promissory note for the principal sum of twelve thousand, four hundred fifty-three and eleven one-hundredths ($12,453.11 100) dollars, payable one year after date to the order of J. Z. Gregg, with interest at the rate of eighteen per cent. per annum payable quarterly, and to secure payment of the same did assign and transfer to the undersigned as trustee all his right, title, interest, claim and demand in and to the rights, credits, dividends, stocks, assets and property of the Silver Wing Mining and Reduction company with power to the undersigned, in case of default in the payment of said note, to dispose of the said collateral security according to his judgment and discretion and apply the proceeds to the payment of said note; and whereas, default has been made in the payment of both principal and interest of said promissory note and part thereof having been paid,

Now, therefore, pursuant to the power and authority in me vested by the said Henry McAllister, Jr., and at the request of the said J. Z. Gregg, the legal holder of said note, notice is hereby given that on Tuesday, the 5th day of July, 1881, at the hour of ten o'clock a. m. at the office of the Silver Wing Mining and Reduction company at Colorado Springs, Colorado, I will expose at public sale and sell to the highest and best bidder, for cash all the right, title and interests of the said Henry McAllister, Jr., in and to the stock and property of the said corporation so transferred as collateral, and now standing in the name of the undersigned as trustee, on the books of the company, the same consisting of the right to sixteen hundred and ten (1,610) shares of the capital stock of said Silver Wing Mining and Reduction company of the par value of one hundred dollars each.

Dr. Eliza Foster Stillman,

OF CHICAGO,

Is now at Grace Greenwood's Cottage Hot Springs House, Manitou Springs,

Her miraculous healing power and marvelous diagnosis are attributed to by many eminent persons

Dr Stillman's magnetic remedies are efficacious where all other treatment fails giving immediate relief in acute suffering, and permanent cure of chronic diseases

FROM PRESIDENT GARFIELD

WASHINGTON, June 26 1874

Dear Madam—I take pleasure in testifying to the skill and ability with which you treat medical patients. I have received very marked benefit from your treatment. * * * Very truly yours, J. A. GARFIELD.

FROM DONN PIATT

* * Out of the hundreds of cases treated by you while in this city I did not hear of one—I dare talk did anything without—failure * * *

FROM GRACE GREENWOOD

I am happy to be able to add my testimony to the marvelous—I had almost written miraculous—healing power of Dr Eliza F Stillman * * * She actually seems to have no nonsense in the matter but an earnest desire to relieve suffering through the strong power which she believes a direct gift from the Divine Healer the Great Physician * * * GRACE GREENWOOD
